Off the Wall Products Announces New Distributor: APOCG Supply, a Service Disabled Veteran-Owned Company

APOCG Supply is Off the Wall Products' Preferred Distributor of Security and Safety Products Worldwide

Salt Lake City, UT— April 10, 2008—Off the Wall Products announced today that they have formed a distributor agreement with service disabled veteran-owned APOCG Supply which will now offer Off the Wall Products' proprietary safety and security products worldwide. An agreement to distribute anti-terrorism vehicle barriers, anti-ram bollards, a line of portable plastic water-filled military barriers and an acoustic hailing device is now finalized.

“We are excited about our alliance with APOCG Supply,” said Off the Wall Products' Managing Member, Marc Christensen. “The military background that APOCG's president, Joseph Johnson brings is a perfect fit with our security products. His experience helps us reach markets—especially military markets—that stand to benefit from our security products.”

Joseph Johnson, President of APOCG Supply said, “This alliance is a natural one for my company. The post-9/11 need for security makes anti-terrorism products like these a priority for potential targets around the world. The extensive line of proprietary technology in their acoustic hailing device, vehicle barriers and anti-terrorism bollards are highly desirable among military professionals, so this is sure to be a win-win relationship.”

Products available through APOCG Supply are highly specialized for the security market. In addition to several types of anti-ram devices, an acoustic hailing device called the MAHD-R is ideal for surveillance, and its listening and speaking capabilities are uniquely designed to establish intent of approaching persons or vessels. More information about APOCG Supply may be found online at www.apocgsupply.com.

About Off the Wall

Off the Wall Products is a Salt Lake City-based company, with offices also in Washington, D.C. that designs and manufactures anti-ramming barriers and heavy-duty plastic barriers and barricades for roadway, airport, military, commercial construction and crowd control.
